

False Notions of Being

by lex Tuesday, Jul 24 2018, 7:48am

international / prose / post

I will not quote Shakespeare so relax, if you know how.

I am -- as is obvious as I am producing this piece, however, I could also prove I exist by producing my Birth Certificate, a piece of bloody paper in which the State places more value/recognition than the living person. In fact if I was unable to produce a certificate of my existence the State would either not recognise me or consider me a criminal or undocumented alien though clearly, I am of this world.

So the emphasis/recognition of human existence rests with the bureaucracy. Now consider the absurdity of this circumstance on which I could write reams, but that is not my objective here, BEING is, and be-ing requires no proof or verification other than PRESENCE.

However, States, all of them, do not recognise presence or existential proof of being they require pieces of paper verifying being and existence, which piece of paper takes precedence over the living, breathing entity; where I am going with this I confess, I haven't got a clue YET, I am an automatic writer and allow that process to create discourses, poetry and all manner of textual art/productions.

Now imagine if I hesitated and 'arrested' the flow of my fingers running wildly across the keyboard, to interrogate the creative, automatic writing principle/process and asked/demanded it to identify itself and produce a certificate of existence, what would become of the process of writing if I refused to automatically acknowledge it and allowed it to function, do all the work? I would cease to be a writer, I would become a pedestrian the same as the vast majority that think nothing of producing certificates and diminishing themselves. Have you noted that my existence as a writer would cease to exist but 'I' would continue to exist but in a diminished capacity, I would have suffered a death of sorts, which alarms me, as we should all now be aware of the identity of the assassin that never produces a certificate of its existence if asked but wields a demanding authority over the masses.

This assassin is not required to produce any certificate or validation of the rude and offensive, murderous and enslaving power it wields. Therefore to preserve my unique Beingness and oppose, I would be forced to ask the State organisation for a certificate of its separate existence not as a arm/limb of the State, as that allowance is not granted me or others. To say that I am of the bloodline of Abraham is not enough, though I am not a Jew, I must produce a certificate of an isolated, biologically dispossessed, alienated single entity, which I am NOT, I am HUMAN, a member of a vast FAMILY; the absurd unfairness and double standards scream, but the bureaucracy more often than not would refer the matter to other State entities/'authorities' that have license to indefinitely incarcerate or kill me, yet I am unable to exercise the same inclusive privilege toward those that would impose it on me, why? It should now be obvious.

So the next time some imbecile, robotic bureaucrat or other State representative demands a certificate to validate your existence -- deferring to the irrelevant in fact -- refuse, or defer and become an obvious SLAVE; because the entire process outlined above is the process of creating modern slaves, the birth certificate is in fact a document of ownership, plain to see.

Now compare with the slavery of the past, where chains and confinement were utilised to manage SERVANTS of the State and the wealthy. Chains have far more integrity than pieces of paper as they present a clear and loud message compared to the subtle methods of so-called democracies or 'free' States.

Regardless of the view taken there is no doubting the upper hand is held by the faceless State, as it is absolved of the requirements placed on others, the majority. I'm sure now that most readers are able to appreciate the utter absurdity and double standards of such requests and what a birth certificate really represents.

So now we are forced to interrogate culture that demands papers/documents for everything, movement, identity validation, entry/exists and so on, it never stops. And YOU imagine you are free, when in fact you are no more than a harnessed and monitored drone.

Interesting and horrific, as I had no idea how it would all end, but such is the sweet power and liberty of free thought and EXPRESSION, which today have become targets (internet censorship) of the State. YES, it's all but over. So when are you going to awaken from your induced cultural stupor and realise you are nothing more than a slave?

<https://www.paulcraigroberts.org/2018/07/23/more-lies-from-the-corrupt-elite/>

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-147.html>