

Recovering Economy, Ay? Blow it Out Your Arse!

by tom Saturday, Aug 4 2018, 9:59pm

international / prose / post

It is a given that every western government blames previous governments for the appalling state of the national economy, mismanagement, soaring debt, corruption, favouring minority sectors, etc, we've heard it all before a million times. But there's one sure, indicator/measure that all lying politicians cannot avoid, stagnant wage growth over decades.

Governments habitually throw meaningless, tortured statistics at populations that suffer growing deprivation, plummeting living standards, and permanent job loss. So where is the magic "Recovering Economy"? It exists only in the minds of lying politicians, as wage GROWTH is without doubt the best REAL indicator of a healthy economy, a situation that hasn't been seen for decades. It is time to rub the noses of our lying politicians into the real world shit they have created by serving minority interests rather than their respective nations; the only thing these puppet politicians excel in is LYING, licking the arses of plutocrats, duplicity and INCOMPETENCE, that's it!

Available funds are moved here and there, but no REAL growth is detected, however, corporate and bank profits soar while average people starve faced with ever increasing prices but no wage growth to compensate for price rises occurs, someone is being conned and exploited, take a guess. Which reality indicates that economies are in fact hollowing themselves out from within.

Depleting available funds are channelled to big business concerns in order to give the appearance of 'growth', however, business 'growth' is CLEARLY at the expence of failing national infrastructure development, decreasing social services in health and education, and the outright EXPLOITATION of average workers, those fortunate enough to have an underpaying job.

And yet people continue to be taken in by the same tired LIES, 'they' did it, but we'll fix it,' and yet nothing is ever fixed as the past few decades proves. The world is living on DEBT and debt holders would soon quietly take over nations, impose austerities and sell or appropriate national assets, in order to squeeze the last drops of wealth to debt servicing. But that is not the planned design, a borderless, banker/corporate-owned world is the ambition. Where corporations are able to rape and exploit freely and bankers bloat on the short term profits/benefits of the corporations which they create and finance. The game is rigged, there is no real economy, only money laundering/hijacking and lending to increase debt.

Maintain a constant eye on wage stagnation, increasing national and personal debt and rocketing prices then ask yourselves what the logical outcome would be, if you reject the nefarious banker/corporate design suggested above. It happened to Greece and in Cypress banks are now able to utilise citizen's deposits to bail themselves out of trouble, fair? In your economically enslaved dreams!

All politicians that lie, mis-lead and mis-represent the people should be placed on trial for treason, as it is obvious who they really serve today.

<http://www.informationclearinghouse.info/49958.htm>

