

Nothing Holy and Nothing New(s)

The Founders of State Christianity, the Eastern Roman Emperor Constantine, a politician, and his wily mother, who chose all Christianity's 'holy' sites herself, as the Greek gospel narratives were largely pedagogic not historical. She chose a hill, a cave as the likely 'suitable' sites for the crucifixion, burial tomb, the garden etc, purely for political expediency, she was aware from pagan cults that 'sacred' sites are critical in forming belief systems; and so today her political choices continue to be 'sacred' sites though clearly it was all politics designed to manage populations by transferring the costly military rule of Rome to an internalised ideological management system learned from the Jews.

It was/is supremely more efficient to implant behaviours via indoctrination than it was to maintain an enforcer military-police State over the vast territories of the economically failing, military Roman Empire, which was in record time successfully transformed into the low cost, highly efficient Holy Roman Empire, which ruled Europe for another 1500 years, of course governed by an elite priest class, selected by Constantine and his Nicean Council, and it worked, as is evident today.

Which interesting political ideological manoeuvre relates directly and manifests in today's societies, as "perception management" and "propaganda;" though notions/beliefs are not learned from 'sacred texts' today but from other (mis)information sources/systems, primarily the media in all its various forms. And so western society remains captured and trapped ideologically, with various enforcing branches of the elite 'priesthood' which evolved into a CIA type inquisition force to brutally maintain political control, which verifies that there is nothing really new under the sun regarding human behaviour, politics, elite rule and the enslavement of the masses via ideological/belief systems.

Consider the content of today's 'news,' aside from the fact there is nothing essentially new in the 'news,' it becomes abundantly CLEAR that ALL content is brazen propaganda, fiction, shaped from distorted information to maintain certain views, behaviours and political control; notice how the populations of entire nations slave today for elites -- as they did in ancient Egypt, the prototype model -- hardly without question, such is the sophistication of misinformation/propaganda methods learned and refined over the millennia.

Populations not only slave for elites today they are easily mobilised to fight and serve ruling elites engaged in conquest to increase their wealth, of course always to the great cost of average people in all nations.

In reality, there has never been a FREE world nor does one exist today, though perhaps in some unknown traditional societies a degree of real freedom exists, but I doubt it. Freedom, democracy, liberty, etc, are MONSTROUS propaganda LIES, easily proven/exposed with a modicum of analysis and a high school knowledge of history, so today's nose-ringed slaves hardly differ from the slaves of ancient Egypt, however, today, literacy is widespread therefore today's slaves have no excuses for their respective predicaments. As for the media-lobotomised morons, continue bleating Allah, Jehovah, Jesus, USA, UK or whatever else you have been fed as something to live and die for. The one consistent, irrefutable fact today is the same as it was in ancient times, ELITE RULE serviced and supported by willing SLAVES.

Don't YOU think it's about time WE questioned political systems based on myths and elite designed false beliefs/LIES -- alternatively, you could eat more enslaving shit and learn to like it!
