

Mike Pence is the Traitorous Fall Guy

by jude Friday, Sep 7 2018, 1:26am

international / prose / post

This story is predicated on the assumption that there is indeed a 'single person' responsible for the NYT outrageous op-ed. However, clearly no-one ever goes out alone on a traitorous limb such as described in the NYT op-ed. Rather that person is led to believe they have strong support from deep state ranks and other players in the Trump admin, though clearly it is extremely naive to believe that the chosen 'sacrificial lamb' -- as exposure is a certainty -- would be supported openly, which would jeopardise more careers than one, and in Washington it's all about career advancement, so goodbye naive fall guy/SUCKER, you have been politically conned.

VP, Mike Pence

Now, assuming it's one person, all indicators would point to Mike Pence, who is an Evangelical Christian, but why him? Simply due to the fact that the op-ed writer has highlighted one factor above others, Trump's "amorality" though it is clear that Trump's MAJOR flaw/sickness is NPD, from which issues all his other compulsive, insecure traits/behaviours, yet the op-ed writer is more attuned/concerned with 'amorality.'

Now compare a few excursions into whore territory, which is the norm in high administrative circles private and public, with Bill Clinton's escapades, with a fat, unappealing intern and HIS pathological lying, which he has in common with Trump. There's hardly a comparison as Clinton's amorality and consciously calculated deceit/lies dwarfs those of Trump, yet the closer you are to the fire, so to speak, the more 'heat' you feel, and Pence more than any other admin official would carry the largest proportion of that moral offence due to his idiotic subscription to Evangelical Christian doctrine, notwithstanding the fact that Pence was appointed to capture the Christian vote, which strategy succeeded. But strategists must choose wisely, as a 'bad' puritanical choice is likely to bring the house down, no irony intended.

Going-a-whoring in the USA is par for the course but to a Christian its one huge unholy activity, particularly for a married, family man.

Pence, if indeed he is the guilty party, would be well advised to come clean before he is exposed and save at least his reputation as exposure and career meltdown is merely a few steps away. Indeed, the career conscious writer uses that excuse to hide behind anonymity not realising the full disastrous ramifications of such a stupid op-ed, as it's not just a career that is in jeopardy but personal and family welfare. Martyr complex is a suitable condition to apply to the guilty party/ies, as clearly they have failed to appreciate the full extent of the negative ramifications when rustic and violent Trump supporters are taken into account, notwithstanding there are many more good and valid reasons to take the high ground while it's still available, as external exposure leads, in these types of instances, to the gutter, literally and historically.

Nevertheless, to continue this piece would be of no avail as we would ALL discover the culprit/s soon enough and also, if it is indeed you Mr naive Pence, do not imagine the deep state would not have you assassinated by a 'maniacal Trump supporter,' if you think you could expose their involvement in this sordid, DESPERATE affair as some sort of defence/protection strategy, already your life is only worth how you handle the situation from here on in. Good luck, cos you'll need it. You're damned if you do and damned if you don't, only Jesus could save you now, but it's a damn shame he doesn't exist. You'll see!

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-274.html>