

The House of Saud Ready for Regime Change

by celia Sunday, Oct 14 2018, 8:34pm

international / prose / post

Someone in the antiquated and universally loathed house of Saud has lost the plot. A recent press release outlining retaliatory action threatened by the Saudi royal family -- which would disrupt the global economy -- if the international community applied pressure on the house of Saud regarding the suspect death of journalist Jamal Khashoggi, last seen entering the Saudi embassy in Turkey.

Arrogant Salman, set up for the fall

The universally loathed, primitive house of Saud only survives due to support from Washington, which has always been compromised and embarrassed by this relationship. If the USA chooses it would be a relatively simple matter to overthrow the monarchy, as clearly the population would welcome regime change in that medieval, oppressive kingdom.

By threatening or taking such action the Saudi monarchy is begging to be eliminated; any attempt to disturb an already unstable world economy would be met with severe punitive action, however, it seems the arrogant and deluded house of Saud is unaware of the consequences of pursuing its threats. Regime change, much to the relief of the Saudi population, would be a certainty, furthermore, ALL international Saudi funds, probably totaling $trillions, would be frozen if not confiscated, put simply the house of Saud would fall overnight and its members would be surrendered to the people for numerous war and other crimes against humanity, in other words it would be FINITO for every brutal, parasitic member of that despised royal family.

Clearly, the house of Saud is desperate and clutching at straws to somehow separate itself from the now obvious murder of Khashoggi. It would be a just outcome either way, trial or regime change, as no leadership on earth is more qualified for regime change and social reform than the oppressive, mass murdering, leadership of the house of Saud, which it should be mentioned, has openly boasted that it turns Jihadi terrorist groups 'on and off like a light switch!'

So let's all hope the extremely vulnerable and arrogant house of Saud pursues its threats, though the end is nigh regardless. The world outgrew primitive and brutal medieval monarchies centuries past.

See:

<https://washingtonmonthly.com/2018/10/14/call-saudi-arabias-bluff-and-save-the-world/>

<https://www.haaretz.com/middle-east-news/trump-i-told-saudi-king-he-wouldn-t-last-for-two-weeks-without-u-s-backing-1.6517717>

Journalist Jamal Khashoggi -- missing believed murdered

<http://fortune.com/2018/10/14/saudis-threaten-retaliation-jamal-khashoggi/>

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-315.html>