

Instantly

by jan Saturday, Nov 10 2018, 11:35pm international / poetry / post the deep imprints of experience trace my prints to the present looking behind counters the new, cast vision forward and see the teeming deep forests of the possible mists rise above

some swirling, others dissipating, some coming slowly to form though translucent promising what? mysteries far from actualisation, indications only of a possible new course which releases the bound from previous dreams and illusions

leave what is behind be new, whispers the wind a twitch indicates approval a portend of rising, blossoming flowers producing fruit overflowing, voluptuous with colour texture and taste, senses intoxicated dazzling mind and delineating the past from the future and yet only in between like an invisible diamond cleave hides existence bursting from the insinuated, imperceptible to fill all space and time which realm evades the mundane, yet its fullness is overwhelming succumb, surrender or miss the opportunity of freedom from the known past and projected future die completely to everything, the lies and fabrications; language is not necessary to communicate leave it to the gibbering gibbons that adorn themselves in all manner of delusions, false hopes and pretenses that never deliver each failed hope replaced with another lie to rescue the lost and morbid that unknowingly seek their own destruction in order to escape their self-inflicted torment how very sorry and incapable they are seeking death in order to achieve salvation never make comparisons with past experience for good or ill as both lie and bind tighter than a constrictor thus powerful buffalos become stuck in the mud lured by water and insatiable thirst becoming easy prey for cold-blooded crocodiles that slide easily over mud and glide in/under water -- be aware and live

---

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-337.html>