

The Blame Game as Social Pathology

by james Sunday, Dec 30 2018, 10:28pm

international / prose / post

Any professional psychologist/psychiatrist would tell you that people that always blame others and NEVER admit or take responsibility for their own disastrous actions or in-actions, suffer an acute pathology that manifests as pathological lying, narcissism, paranoid psychosis etc. However, when this condition manifests in entire societies it seems disregarded as a SOCIAL disease.

Consider how most people react to the social problems they face in most 'democratic' societies, in which the majority are supposed to rule by representation. Reduced standards of living, imposed austerity, failing infrastructures, HUGE wealth disparities, offshoring jobs, to name a few grievances. Now consider the social reaction, 'it's the (corrupt) government's fault, they support the rich and disregard average people etc, well, indeed, that and more negatives are TRUE, BUT the issue is not who or what is at fault, the REAL ISSUE is what are the masses, Y-O-U, going to do about it? After all, we live in (pretend) democracies, where the oppressed majority are supposed to rule -- a laughable prospect today. So where is the ONUS for reform and change, to RESTORE fairness, equity and 'justice for all?' Of course it rests directly on the shoulders of the PEOPLE, if representation has failed, as it has done for decades in western societies.

So the stark, unavoidable reality is that YOU/we are responsible for the situation we now find ourselves facing today. And to date the 'solution' as is universally evident is to sit passively with thumb neatly inserted in arse, and complain/BLAME others. Well, this pathological attitude is precisely the cause/reason we face the outrageous disparities and injustices we face today.

We/YOU are directly responsible for the current situation, if you are one of the many that do not oppose prevailing injustices and corruption -- THAT BLOODY SIMPLE!

So kindly desist from emailing me about, it's all 'THEIR' fault. NOTE this known FACT, the people/majority are the strongest social force in any society. Now ask yourselves WHY YOU FAIL to act when action is CLEARLY required.

By SIMPLE, universal, PERSIST DEMAND, almost ALL the social problems we face today could be remedied, almost overnight -- and don't talk to me about voting for either of two known, elite OWNED, political parties. How the fuck do you imagine we got into this mess?

The FAILURE/blame is ALL OUR responsibility and so too is the REMEDY/solution/CURE if existing legal rights and prerogatives are exercised. Persistent demand is the easiest and most effective solution for all corrupt minority serving governments, which cannot exist or endure without Y/OUR active or passive support.

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-412.html>