

Media Hysteria, Dingoes, Babies and Russiagate

by jane Friday, Jan 11 2019, 8:18pm

international / prose / post

Yes indeed, the title refers primarily to the infamous Chamberlain case where an innocent woman was convicted of murdering her baby and subsequently jailed for years until proven INNOCENT.

Australian Dingo

To say media HYSTERIA ran this case is understatement. We had media compliant forensic scientists swearing that foetal blood was discovered in the Chamberlain car and more crap from 'experts' and police, BUT it was ALL false, like WMD in Iraq. But do fictions have the same power as truth? Well, in fact fictional narratives historically have far more power than fact and truth. And so today we have endless media repetition of lies in order to convince or sell a narrative or story, and it appears to work; not that it's a new concept it goes back to the 19th century, The Crowd, a book written by Gustav Le Bon, then of course Hitler and Goebbels infamously stating that a lie constantly repeated becomes 'truth.' So what's new? NOTHING!

Today, marketing, advertising, PR, psychology have all combined to produce the most sophisticated propaganda machine in history, commonly referred to as the Mass Media. Yet, the formulas utilised, though refined do not depart from century old principles on crowd control/management. Appeal to blind emotions, not the discriminating intellect, whip up HYSTERIA over an orchestrated or staged issue, 'Gulf of Tonkin Incident', \(Vietnam\) and 9/11, which tricks are commonly referred to as "false flags" today. Indeed, Lincoln's statement that you can't fool all of the people all of the time applies today more-so than it did in the past as media was not as pervasive in Lincoln's time, so evermore people are able to see through the contrived crap.

And so we have 'Russiagate,' which claims the Russians installed Trump in power via their media 'magic tricks', though no substantial real proof has ever been revealed, why? Simply due to the fact that it doesn't exist, BUT does that 'minor' problem alter or weaken the lying media campaign? Not at all, as 'experts,' politicians and others of note, repeat the same LIE to the public -- so it must be true, right? Not by a long shot, shit is always shit regardless of how polished it may be.

In the Australian Chamberlain case there was no media INTENT to deceive, it was simply the media going literally MAD that convinced the public \(and 'experts'\) and ultimately convicted an innocent woman of murdering her own new born baby. However, 'Russiagate' and most media 'stories' that emanate from the USA are another phenomena. Intent and design are OBVIOUS, in other words, concerted efforts are made to create false narratives and dupe the public with ulterior motives behind these stories, the illegal Iraq invasion for instance. The entire American mass media reads from a script written by the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) which has among its members all the known media moguls/plutocrats. And out it (bullshit) goes to media outlets for dissemination.

In some instances the script is repeated word for word on numerous media outlets, quite comical in fact. BUT does this obvious giveaway serve to awaken the public? NO! The uneducated public take it all in, hook, line and SINKER.

Few, if any Americans look at reality; Trump, a known demagogue PLAYED, with the assistance of Steve Bannon, the American people like a piano and Trump continues to be supported by that uneducated, insular group -- after all he learned his tricks as a reality TV performer. However, his appeal rests only with the uninformed, uneducated classes which constitute the MAJORITY in the USA, so he by consequence became president, no surprise -- so much for a user pays education system, as Trump is the result AND Putin had nothing to do with the outcome, plain to see, though of course he was ecstatic that Hillary Clinton, who called Putin "the new Hitler," was soundly defeated, and Clinton NEVER got over it. It was 'them,' Wikileaks-Putin-Social Media, the 'other' that engineered her loss, not Clinton calling American citizens "deplorables" and insulting them to the extreme -- politics 101, the people are to be treated as friends and allies NOT, 'deplorables.' But Clinton was/is and will remain a LIAR and full of shit. Good luck on your next attempt at president should you decide to defy reason AGAIN.

So where does it all lead today? Now history is of great assistance here, as we are all able to trace and analyse propaganda addicted states of the past. And what major FACT is revealed? They were all TOTALITARIAN political systems, communist and/or fascist is irrelevant, as totalitarianism is the common key indicator. So would it be rocket science to add 2+2? The propaganda addicted USA is rapidly becoming a totalitarian police/surveillance state; democracy and freedom are long dead in new corporate/banker ruled America, where the masses are exploited as an expendable resource, duped and titillated daily by the plutocrat owned mass media.

There is truly nothing new under the sun only systems change for the worse it seems, however, change could be for the better if the people decide to restore their nations to functional, fair, representative DEMOCRACIES. We've had it in the past, do YOU remember what life was like BEFORE sacrificing your hard won Liberties -- your fathers' are rolling in their graves?

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-432.html>