Reuters released a tiny piece on Russian FM Lavrov stating that economic sanctions on Venezuela are illegal, doh! But has that stopped the US in the past? Lavrov also stated that America was attempting to "confiscate Venezuelan state assets" [OIL] and that Venezuela has Russia's full support, see link below.

Lavrov, poo poo, ca ca!

Now let's consider Russia's support of Syria for an example of a neutered bear in 'action.'

After Trump declared he would pull troops out of Syria, the offensive was handed over to Israel which nation has flagrantly and illegally been bombing Syria, without retaliation from Russia's much touted superior air defense systems, in fact Israel warned Russia not to interfere with its illegal bombing campaigns, which were/are almost on a daily basis.

Russia has not shot down a single Israeli jet blatantly defying international law and bombing targets in Syria, so what type of support would Venezuela get if Russia's LEGAL assistance of its ally Syria, amounts to a TIMID, cowardly presence and almost no reaction to Israel's ILLEGAL bombing campaigns?

Good luck president Maduro, castrated and thoroughly corrupt friends like Putin/Russia, you don't need. As for China, what a laugh. China is loath to intervene militarily anywhere including against the incursions by western naval vessels in the South China Sea.

The above are the REAL verifiable FACTS about Russia and China -- both nations are full of shit and bluster; what is the point of developing superior air defense systems and deploying them in Syria if they are not used? As for "yellow dog" China, as its traditionally viewed by western imperial powers, it would, based on its cowardly track record, do NOTHING to assist ally Maduro.

NOW, lunatic neocon war hawk John Bolton is acutely aware of the above reality and so the U.S. would continue its transparent illegal coup attempt to appropriate and control one of the largest, if not the largest, oil reserves in the southern hemisphere, which capture would devastate Russia's economy and severely interfere with China's international development projects and local economy as international energy markets would then be used offensively.

If or when we see Russia shooting down Israeli jets illegally operating over Syria, and China defending its territorial interests then both nations may gain some CREDIBILITY. UNTIL THEN Russia remains a neutered bear and China a yellow dog nation -- that's how HISTORY, not this writer, SEES IT SO FAR. And people, which should know better continue to believe that Putin is not in the pockets of the globalist elites. Maybe they would care to explain how Putin accrued over $250 billion ferreted away in WESTERN tax havens and banks -- give me a break, dreamboats!
