Blowing Desolation

by zed Thursday, Jan 31 2019, 7:13am international / poetry / post believe the wind blowing thru desolation kissing hot lava, frying cool seas stepping on the highest mountains then returning to its secret place in the pulse of creation the perfection, the real easily seen in the movements of the wind, fire, rain, heaving seas and the expanse of space yet it is the same harmony expressed by each according to its uniqueness and character the throat of a thrush moving waves in the medium which appears as song like the sound of blood rushing thru veins wet with whoosh-sing the throb of heart and brain synchronised opens the gates of paradise but remains closed to the deaf, blind and insensitive do you hear, do you see forever, or would u remain as culture-created gnats tugged this way and that by vile manipulations?

What! you do not see, hear or appreciate the harmony?

the only way to see the blueness of the sky is to look up with your eyes die in awe then wait for the wind to reveal all it has touched on this earth since it became itself u need not believe you have broken free you would see what is in pushing out and that which is out pushing in the heaving of the universe until it finds rest in equilibrium then tires of its sleep to awaken once again as a New cycle of creation imagine all the energy in creation exploding from the smallest indivisible point then moving eight more times to create everything that could BE and you stuck in front of your TV imagining that you see

Inverse Times Open Publishing. http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-454.html