

The LAW is a BAD Joke, not an Ass

by jed Saturday, Feb 2 2019, 11:35pm

international / prose / post

We live in an era of lawlessness, we need only consider that not one American has ever been charged before the ICC for war and other crimes against HUMANITY. Henry Kissinger was proud of the fact that he implemented indiscriminate "carpet bombing" during the Indo-Chinese war -- millions of innocent peasants were killed as a result. America is proud that it illegally attacked and invaded Iraq based on a raft of exposed LIES, though millions of innocent civilians were killed in the grab for Iraq's oil and prior to that illegal invasion millions were killed by US sanctions on Iraq which forbade the import of medical supplies which resulted in over 500,000 child deaths, which the then Sec. of State, when questioned in the media, considered those deaths, "worth it." So what is an American politician's life worth today, Madam Albright?

It is astounding that blatant and KNOWN U.S. mass murders and clearly sociopathic criminals have never been held to account in an international court of law though the Nuremberg trials resulted in new international laws to prevent mass murdering by rogue nations ever occurring again. The only conclusion thinking, moral people must arrive at is massive corruption of the law and law enforcers, otherwise proven AMERICAN criminals would have been brought to trial to PAY for their horrendous crimes. Today America openly leads the world in crimes against humanity and that not including America's numerous crimes in the 20th century. So what gives?

Well, it should be clear to all. If leaders of other nations are constantly brought to trial at the Hague for their crimes against their own and other people, then why and how do American criminal leaders avoid prosecution? Clearly, international courts have been politicised (corrupted) and serve only the interests of those that have bought favour and IMPUNITY. The entire Bush administration, including all administrations thereafter, should be serving life jail sentences yet they enjoy the booty of their many illegal interventions for criminal corporate and banking elites. Libya was a debt free nation before US/NATO bombed it into oblivion, and if you care to research the matter, only three weeks into the NATO bombing the Reserve Banking Cartel opened a branch in Benghazi, "with governor!"

Today Libya is a ruined State and in huge debt to Western banking cartels, the plan, debt-enslavement and oil exploitation worked a treat. Gaddafi was brutally assassinated and now western banks rule/OWN Libya and its resources, as is the plan for Venezuela and its oil, if criminal America is able to get-away with it AGAIN.

But has the WORLD had enough of America's horrendous crimes today, and would overt/undisguised criminal activity be prosecuted in international courts? That indeed is the question, no single nation has ever been able to successfully sway the entire world, though America has done its best and failed to achieve that end. We shall see, as 2019 promises to be anything but a quiet year for the WORLD.

As for the LAW, don't make me laugh, it serves only the interests of those that own it and we should all remember that the people once owned and were served by the LAW, so what happened?

