

Why Nothing Changes

by jane Tuesday, Feb 5 2019, 8:17pm

international / prose / post

All western governments are owned by mega-wealthy, tax avoiding, corporate interests pure and simple. Politicians are puppets and those that have a semblance of independent thought and attempt to represent the people are soon eliminated leaving a group of non-representative elite-serving sycophants in government whose only job is to do the bidding of the corporate-banker elites that own the western world.

The US orchestrated coup in progress in Venezuela exemplifies today what the world has become -- unfortunately -- accustomed to in the 21st century, Libya and Iraq are previous examples of ILLEGAL interference in the affairs of other sovereign nations and flagrant resource THEFT. Indeed, OIL once again is at the bottom of this pathetic and transparent coup attempt, and the masses know it, BUT will they act to prevent this tired criminal strategy from achieving its nefarious goals? Not a chance. The masses have a perfect track record in not pursuing fully exposed State criminals which are also responsible for the deaths, maiming and dispossession of millions of INNOCENT citizens fleeing the horrors of western interventions.

So the global elites are aware they would never see opposition from the paralysed, timid masses, which leaves other powerful nations to support their own interests under the guise of protecting the people from external threats.

Russia if it intervenes in Venezuela would only do so to protect its own interests and narrow petroleum economy, so would Putin act decisively as previous Soviet leaders acted to protect Soviet territories against the west? Not likely, as Putin also has a track record of abandoning his allies in their greatest time of need, think Libya, and today, Serbia. So we must ask why and how US criminals serving globalist criminal elite interests rarely see opposition? The answer is simple, everyone has a price, and Putin's $250 billion ferreted away in western tax havens and banks indicates the OBVIOUS; indeed, considered opinion based on previous behaviour, indicates that Putin would cave as he has done on numerous prior occasions, which behaviour has mystified many that believe that Russian leaders take no bribes from the west and are ideologically motivated, NOT SO today as everything revolves around money, the old ideological wars are history. So corruption is the means to world supremacy today and it sure has proven to be a success.

So if Putin fails to directly and militarily support Venezuela would China intervene to support ally Venezuela? Hardly, as China is LOATH to interfere militarily ANYWHERE, though one day soon, it would be forced to defend itself, the result of its cowardice to date, particularly in Libya and the former Yugoslavia.

Of course this appalling status quo is easily stopped and the corrupt criminals that run this horror show are easily apprehended as they are KNOWN, but of course that depends on the most powerful social force in existence, the masses of the WORLD -- which are essentially one group of exploited, enslaved, shit-eating subservients that cower and tremble at the thought of reforming their nations and apprehending known corporate criminals and their bought politicians, which ONGOING scenario is plain to see today.

I need not go into detail as the effort would be wasted on useless, gutless, good for nothing, BUT SLAVERY, shit-eating subjects. Nevertheless, the FACT remains WE ARE ONE by choice or circumstance and soon enough we would all be forced to act to save ourselves or die like the dogs we are today. Change? Don't make me laugh!

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-463.html>