Weeping Joy

by james Friday, Feb 15 2019, 9:01am international / poetry / post > willows weep draping their sorrows along the bank like curtains that do not shield or cover as the curtain itself weeps the breeze is gentle and lifts the willowed curtains in perfectly coordinated harmonious movements people promenade along the bank like fixed dancers on cuckoo clocks going nowhere deluded by their apparent free movement though completely out of sync with the harmony surrounding them impelled by the breeze leaves and hanging branches sweep across the water of the lake creating tiny ripples, water-birds navigate thru the temporary obstructions easily, loose like broken clockwork crucifying time at once branches move backwards and forward according to the all the moving forces create a silent visual symphony orchestrated by the harmony of existence though the orchestra seems uncoordinated but its harmony is unmistakable to a patient, observing eye a young woman fascinated it seems by my contemplative quiet positions herself next to a willow on the opposite bank and sits on the green grass lifting her summer frock to expose her uncovered vulva no doubt hoping to distract me from my symphony, i smile nevertheless to which she responds immediately though unaware that my experience with female crotches has left on the opposite bank delighting in my silent, symphonic, weeping reverie

Inverse Times Open Publishing. http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-476.html