

“She’ll be right Mate!”

by jane Friday, Feb 15 2019, 7:59pm

international / prose / post

Australia has the dubious distinction of being the most apathetic, slavish nation on earth, the title is a cultural oft stated colloquialism. But is it true? Clearly not, it won't be 'right' without rectification and active remedial measures as is clear and obvious.

Is it right that the world has allowed major corporations to pollute and destroy the balance of the environment to levels that threaten human survival?

Is it right that the same corporations have thoroughly corrupted representative democracy and continue to install lackeys in positions of power to serve them only?

Is it right that the world's so-called leading 'democracy' now illegally and OPENLY invades weaker nations and kills their elected leaders and STEALS their precious resources all based on exposed orchestrated LIES?

Is it right that numerous administrations of this star-spangled mass murdering nation have never been prosecuted for their horrendous war and other PROVEN crimes against humanity?

Is it right that the servile psychopaths now installed in government wage perpetual wars to serve only the corporate profit motive?

Is it right that corporations and banks have funneled the greater share of the wealth of nations into their own pockets and reduced the majority to subsistence levels of pay and other hardships associated with HUGE disparities of wealth distribution?

Is it right that equality and fairness are obvious pipe dreams?

Is it right that entire populations are monitored, surveilled and intruded upon in the express interests of corporate profits?

Is it right that extinction levels of plants and animals have never been higher due again to the delinquent nature of corporations pursuing profits?

Is it right that the psychopaths currently installed in governments are treading a clear course to 'limited' nuclear war?

Is it right that the entire world has been reduced to debt slavery by the Global Reserve Banking Cartel based in New York?

Is it all right? Obviously NOT! But the Australian disease has now infected the entire world, apathy and complacency have replaced active participation in governing our nations; media induced dreams, myths and OUTRIGHT LIES/propaganda have replaced honest reporting leaving entire populations in ignorance of the realities that face them. And so it is anything but RIGHT! In fact if the reality of how societies are organised today (engineered slavery) by ruling elites, became widely known we would see them drawn and quartered by mobs. But the lying mass media ensures that -- 'She'll be RIGHT, mate! Well, you can blow it out your arse, as we live in an orchestrated, for the majority, nightmare of mass killings and polluting plunder ALL FOR Corporate and Banker PROFITS. That filthy word is behind all the wars, destruction and mayhem of the 21st century if you care to research the matter.

So when the shit really hits the fan, don't worry cos, "she'll be right, mate!"

---

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-477.html>