

War: The USA Prepares for a 'Limited' Nuclear War

by stacey Monday, Feb 18 2019, 7:15pm

international / prose / post

Do you think it meaningless that America is withdrawing from nuclear arms treaties which maintained nuclear peace for decades and has proceeded to develop tactical mini-nukes, though nukes they are? These two simultaneous occurrences indicate that America, now losing economically against China and in weapons development against Russia, are critically important and frightening realities. Indeed, these are the desperate measures of a failing world power, which refuses to accept the new reality of the 21st century, a multi-polar world.

Historically, all empires fall from within and then are overwhelmed from without, the first stage has already occurred in America, the corruption and insanity that now plagues American government is a culmination of its perverse ideology, unchecked corporatism, which is also destroying the environment, and the beast known as the military/techno/surveillance complex, gone mad for profits. While American greed and theft targeted the Middle East and created a losing quagmire, China and Russia quietly but ever so effectively overtook America and it's now too late to reverse the cycle, the military withdrawal from Syria and Afghanistan indicate the thin resources of the American military and to compensate for this obvious shortfall and its burnt-out military forces, nukes are to be deployed to fight the last wars to be recorded on planet earth.

And you dear gutless reader thought that inaction and denial would save you, well, you will be awoken from your dreamworld very soon and be forced to confront the circumstances you allowed to become your demise, you reap what you sow and don't sow, morons. Though it did not have to end this way.

Have a nice daydream while you can, dreamboats.

And so I say, to average readers and dreamboats alike, if you can't read the signs then prepare for the shock of your lives, though both Russia and China are acutely aware that America intends to foment a conflict precipitating a 'limited' nuclear war, as this is the last card America has to play, it has lost the rest. Now consider the dream or pathology factor in any notion that a nuclear conflict could be "limited;" because once that nuclear line is crossed it quickly escalates into full scale nuclear war.

So apathetic, cowardly dreamboats, understand the cause is people everywhere that have failed to rein in ruling psychopaths and avaricious interests before it got out of hand. Take a long hard look at the unrepresentative leaders of the Western world and ask yourselves how on earth could they have been placed in power to lead the world to destruction? And then realise that YOU are responsible for failing to ensure that your nations were not hijacked by criminal, mass murdering, corporate and banker interests, that are now panicking at the thought of losing power. Desperate men seek desperate 'solutions,' and you asked for it.

Inverse Times Open Publishing. <http://inversetimes.lingama.net/news/story-481.html>