a flower regardless of its evolution never escapes what it is, a flower so too the animals and the sapiens that have a unique, inherent ability to be self aware though no qualification is required for the self aware as awareness qualifies itself to what end/purpose does each thing aspire or evolve? simply to be exalted as itself, as in that exaltation is completion fully real-ised, in the sense of reality a perfected rose cannot help but be perfected as all other non-cognisant things, a pig wallowing in shit is in instinctive bliss as it was born to it and does not question yet sapiens differ as they question everything including themselves to arrive at their perfection which is not forced by nature, sapiens must be free to rise or fall in order to attain to their perfection so sapiens have chosen to be simultaneously connected and disconnected with all things including the progenitor of all things the creator god of ancient Egypt masturbated existence into existence that lone god had no choice, it relied on itself to create everything created then ceased its masturbatory creation in order to develop into something greater than it once was alone initially it created companionship to evolve and is personified as man which entity must seek initially within prior to seeking that which is created without, which in essence is itself the above is that which is below, and the inner is that which appears as the outer, herein is the trap and path to liberation or bondage for that entity mindlessness serves the natural world well as its program is perfect and harmonious by nature, what need of thought and cognition?

however, a conscious self-aware being is challenged as its perfection must be discovered or achieved to be appreciated, yet sapiens are also able to draw on the same process if they choose, the greatest knowledge is therefore emptying - in that sense sapiens rely on nature to lead them to perfection yet a conscious decision must be made to accomplish that task, and do not imagine that process is simple as we have thought and cognition to liberate or enslave us, we are stuck with the two-edged sword of self-awareness as potential gods if we successfully achieve, or pigs wallowing in shit if we fail so do not trouble yourself with thought as it is circular, the origin and end is thoughtless yet fully aware as consciousness without learned content, we rely on its indelible imprint alone
