

Wild Wind

by jaxie Monday, Jul 8 2019, 9:07am international / poetry / post completely pointless it is to dwell on our pain, suffering and the injustices we experience, call our entry fee to this fucked up earth plane a debt or tax for the privilege

so what is it that compensates for all the hurt and madness?

we have choice,
a choice to ride the wild wind or accept tortuous subjection and the life of an abused dog for me to choose the wild and unpredictable was instant as my time as a whimpering dog was over come hell or high water to dare where others imagine angels fear to tread exhilarated every aspect of my Being, to dare and succeed is beyond description, to finally spit in the eye of fear and rage against the forces that once subjected me led me to the creator which infinite intelligence informed me that I had finally understood the challenge of human life on earth and had overcome MY particular handicaps and obstructions to ride free on the wild whirling wind of All Existence

🔊 fotheringay__nothing_more.mp3